Kathmandu – Phulchowki Hill – Kathmandu

Early morning drive to Phulchowki Hill after breakfast. Enjoy Panoramic view of majestic Himalaya from the Top. Then, Hike down from Phulchowki Hill Bird watching along with naturalist guide. Godavari Botanical Garden Phulchowki: From Godavari to Phulchowki peak, there are an estimated 270 bird species with 17 listed as endangered. Godavari proper has 100 species recorded. It is impossible to photograph all of them. Phulchowki at 2760m is the highest of the mountains situated 20 km South East of Kathmandu encircling the valley and provides an ideal introduction to the birds of Nepal. Phulchowki has a great density of bird species —around 300 species. The hillside trails and roads are covered with forest featuring outstanding flora as well as diverse birds. Bird watchers in Phulchowki might encounter birds such as the endemic spring babbler, as well as the Curia, Mountain Hawk Eagle, Rufous Bellied Pied Woodpeckers and the Black-throated Parrot bill, to name a few. The Blue-Napped Pitta and a Redheaded Trojan are rare birds found in the area. The Godavari, at the foot of Phulchowki hill where the Royal Botanical Garden is situated, records over 100 species of birds including the lesser racket-tailed Drongo, Tibetan siskin, and the spotted fork tail. The garden is a plantation containing exotic and local flora and is a 'Garden of Dreams' for birds and bird watchers alike. Packed Lunch Inside Godavari Botanical Garden. & Drive Back to Kathmandu. Overnight at Hotel in Kathmandu.
